African Studies

The Leper Compound

Paula Nangle

"The Leper Compound succeeds remarkably in giving a sense of how, during the last years of white rule in southern Africa, the daily experience of ordinary people was interfused with the larger historical drama."—J.M. Coetzee, Nobel Laureate for Literature

The story of a girl growing into womanhood in Rhodesia, this masterful novel is a searing evocation of late twentieth-century African life.

Overcoming Speechlessness

A Poet Encounters the Horror in Rwanda, Eastern Congo, and Palestine/Israel

Alice Walker

Alice Walker visits Rwanda, the eastern Congo, and the Gaza Strip, bearing witness to the atrocities she saw there and struggling to define the space of language necessary to describe the kind of genocidal violence that resists description.

Field Notes on Democracy

Listening to Grasshoppers

Arundhati Roy

As India continues its meteoric rise to the status of economic superpower, this collection serves as a ray of light cast onto the dark underbelly of "the world's largest democracy." From the growth of religious bigotry to the ongoing dispossession of tribal communities, Arundhati Roy challenges the prevailing narrative spun by India's rulers, winning their disdain in the process.

The Forgotten Japanese

Encounters with Rural Life and Folklore

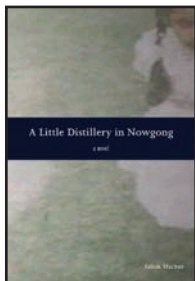

Tsuneichi Miyamoto; Translated by Jeffrey Irish

This collection of photos and life stories from 1930s rural Japan is the first English translation of the Japanese classic. Folklorist Tsuneichi Miyamoto walked one hundred and sixty thousand kilometers to conduct interviews and capture a dying way of life. This translation is an important addition to Asian studies collections and an excellent selection for courses in rural life, folklore, and social sciences.

The Dictionary of Homophobia

A Global History of Gay & Lesbian Experience

Edited by Louis-Georges Tin; Translated by Marek Redburn

Based on the work of seventy researchers in fifteen countries, The Dictionary of Homophobia documents the history of homosexuality and various cultural responses to it. Subjects include political movements, religions, ideologies, and personalities in all regions of the world. This is a masterful, engaged, and wholly relevant study that traces the political and social emancipation of a culture.

The Last Genet

A Writer in Revolt

Hadrien Laroche; Translated by David Homel

The Last Genet is a careful philosophical and historical reading of Jean Genet's relationship with various political movements (the Black Panthers, the Palestinians, the Baader-Meinhof) during the last eighteen years of his life. It describes the journey, both literal and figurative, of a writer who moves away from what Genet himself called "the grammatical world" to become fully engaged with the "real world."

Fidel

A Graphic Novel Life of Fidel Castro

Néstor Kohan; Illustrated by Nahuel Scherma

Scholar Néstor Kohan presents an illustrated life of Fidel Castro, placing Castro's Cuban Revolution squarely in the context of Latin American Marxism and tracing the connections between Cuba, the United States, and the growing trend of rebellion—not just in Latin America, but worldwide—throughout the 1970s, 1980s, and beyond.

New World of Indigenous Resistance

Noam Chomsky; Edited by Lois Meyer and Benjamín Maldonado

"The key issue facing indigenous peoples . . . is how to reconcile the cultural inheritance that makes them indigenous with forces [of] globalization. . . . This collection of commentaries—framed by the wisdom of Noam Chomsky—offers an excellent point of departure for the student interested in addressing such questions."—Latin American Review of Books

The Pigeon Wars of Damascus

Mariusz Kociejowski

The Pigeon Wars of Damascus offers an outcast's tour of the post-9/11 clashes and challenges refashioning the Middle East. Essential reading for anyone who wishes for a deeper understanding of the Middle East, it reminds us once again of the deeper purpose of travel: to absorb and understand the spirit of a place, and to return changed.

Soucouyant

David Chariandy

A soucouyant is an evil spirit in Caribbean folklore, and a symbol here of the distant and dimly remembered legacies that continue to haunt the Americas. This extraordinary first novel is about a son who returns home after a long absence to tend to his Caribbean-born mother suffering from dementia.

Diary of Bergen-Belsen

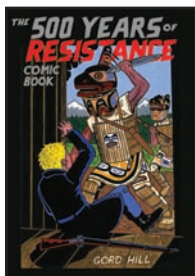

1944–1945

Hanna Levy-Hass; Foreword by Amira Hass

The only extant diary of a Holocaust resistance fighter to be written from inside a Nazi death camp, this harrowing account of Bergen–Belsen provides a unique look at how even the most terrible conditions imaginable failed to destroy the author's faith in humanity and in the possibility of a better world free of persecution.

The 500 Years of Resistance Comic Book

Gord Hill; Introduction by Ward Churchill

A powerful and historically accurate graphic portrayal of Indigenous resistance to the European colonization of the Americas, beginning with the Spanish invasion under Christopher Columbus, and ending with the Six Nations land reclamation in Ontario in 2006. Gord Hill spent two years creating this comic book, which presents the story of Aboriginal resistance in a far-reaching and compelling format.

Incantations

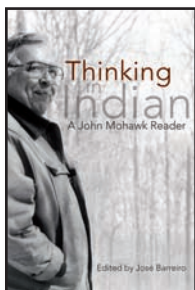

Songs, Spells and Images by Mayan Women

Edited by Ambar Past

"Incantations represents a major contribution to poetry in general and to ethno-poetics in particular."—Jerome Rothenberg

This book presents stark, vivid poems and illustrations rooted in the female soul of indigenous Mexico. The Tzotzil women of the Chiapas Highlands are the poets and the artists. Ambar Past, who collected the poems and drawings, includes a moving essay about their poetics, beliefs, and history.

Colorblind

The Rise of Post-Racial Politics and the Retreat from Racial Equity
Tim Wise

Focusing on disparities in employment, housing, education, and healthcare, Tim Wise argues that racism is indeed still an acute problem in the United States, and that colorblind policies actually worsen the problem of racial injustice. Colorblind presents a timely and provocative look at contemporary racism and offers fresh ideas on what can be done to achieve true social justice and economic equality.

Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass, an American Slave, Written by Himself

A New Critical Edition by Angela Y. Davis
Frederick Douglass and Angela Y. Davis

In this new critical edition, Angela Y. Davis sheds new light on the legacy of Frederick Douglass. In two philosophical lectures originally delivered at UCLA in autumn 1969, Davis focuses on Douglass' intellectual and spiritual awakening and the importance of self-knowledge in achieving freedom from all forms of oppression. In an extended introductory essay, Davis re-examines Douglass through a contemporary feminist perspective.

Once the Shore

Stories

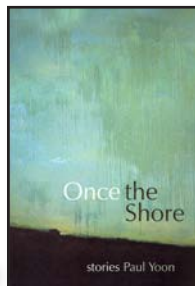

Paul Yoon

In Once the Shore, eight linked stories set on a South Korean island and spanning over half a century reveal an unforgettable portrait of a single place in its entirety. Novelistic in scope, these stories capture the moments in which lives shift and unravel—where loss is turned into reconciliation and where silence is as powerful as the reverberations of war.

You Have Given Me a Country

A Memoir

Neela Vaswani

You Have Given Me a Country is a mixed-genre exploration of blurred borders, identity, and what it means to be bicultural. Combining memoir, history, and fiction, the book follows the paths of the author's Irish Catholic mother and Sindhi Indian father on a journey that spans continents, generations, languages, wars, and, at the center of it all, family.
