BUILDING RED AMERICA

The New Conservative Coalition and the Drive for Permanent Power

THOMAS B. EDSALL

“A reportorial and analytic tour de force....Edsall is dazzling on both the big picture and on new, revealing details...prophetic.” —American Prospect

This powerful examination of the present and future of American politics, by one of America's most distinguished political journalists, reveals how the Republican Party has gained a long-term institutional advantage that allows it to shrug off apparent setbacks like the 2006 elections. Building Red America takes us deeper than any previous book into the operations of the power brokers and issues that galvanize voters. This is a masterful—and disturbing—work of political journalism that challenges all of us to wake up and take heed.

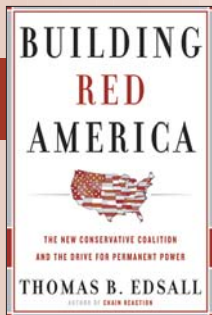

“Edsall’s book is...expansive and daring, traversing economic and demographic trends, history, culture, ideology and political institutions, armed with a bucket full of statistics, to map the external conditions that make those tactics possible.” —Washington Monthly

— Washington Times

THOMAS B. EDSALL covered national politics for twenty-five years at the Washington Post.

He is now a correspondent for the New Republic and the National Journal. He was a guest columnist in 2006 for the New York Times, and holds the Pulitzer-Moore Chair in Public Affairs Journalism at Columbia University in New York. His previous book, Chain Reaction: The Impact of Race, Rights, and Taxes, was a finalist for the Pulitzer Prize for nonfiction in 1992. He lives in New York City and Washington, D.C.
