

NEW EDITION FROM WESTVIEW PRESS

Alexander Rosenberg's essential text for courses on the philosophy of social science provides a tightly argued yet accessible introduction to the philosophical foundations of the human sciences, including economics, anthropology, sociology, political science, psychology, history, and the disciplines emerging at the intersections of these subjects with biology.

Now with fifteen chapters, the fourth edition of Philosophy of Social Science has been thoroughly reorganized and edited to better fit semester-length courses, with shorter chapters, effective transitions, and accessible summaries. Additional features include:

- Three new chapters on philosophical anthropology, functionalism as a research program, and theories of cultural evolution.
- Enhanced discussions of the role of norms and speech acts in social construction.
- Widened treatment of interpretive social science and continental philosophers.
