

FORTHCOMING NEW EDITION FROM WESTVIEW PRESS

“Skillfully places the industrial revolution in world perspective and discusses its global rippling effect.”

—THE HISTORIAN

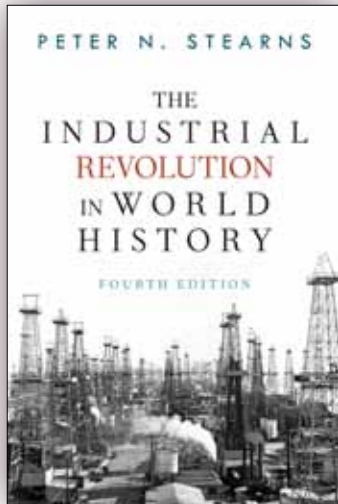

This concise, accessible new edition from noted historian Peter N. Stearns examines the industrial revolution through the twenty-first century, investigating the cause and effect of this global phenomenon. Features of the fourth edition of The Industrial Revolution in World History include:

Global Scope: Stearns offers a world-historical approach, widening the traditional focus on the West, by looking at the global spread and impact of the industrial revolution.

New discussions of industrialization outside the West, including India, China, and the Middle East.

A new introductory section exploring the chronology and geography of the industrial revolution.

An updated concluding chapter discussing the history and changing contexts of industrialization.
